

California Bishops Hold a “virtual” Stations of the Cross to Draw Attention to the Sin of Racism

Descripción

Recording locations included Oakland’s Fruitvale BART Station, California’s first African-American Catholic Church and a former KKK headquarters in San Diego (June 18, 2020)

SACRAMENTO – Bishops from throughout the state of California will release a video today reenacting the Stations of the Cross to draw attention to the sin of racism and ask God’s help in eliminating it. It is also intended to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the tragic killings at Emmanuel AME Church in Charleston, SC, and the Juneteenth holiday this Friday, celebrating the end of slavery in the United States. “People today suffer unjustly simply because of the color of their skin or their national origin,” says Bishop Robert McElroy, leader of the Diocese of San Diego and president of the California Catholic Conference. “Let us acknowledge the sin of racism and work to combat it in our social structures, our institutions and our hearts.” The “Stations of the Cross” is both a reenactment and a reminder of the struggle and humiliation that our Lord Jesus Christ went through on his way to crucifixion and his ultimate resurrection. There are 14 “stations,” each depicting incidents that took place as Jesus carried his own cross to Mount Calvary, the site of his execution. The video released today is led by Archbishop José Gomez of the Archdiocese of Los Angeles and includes the leaders of all 12 California (arch)dioceses and the two Catholic eparchies. The liturgy was developed by the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops. Each station in the video was taped at a location with rich racial significance. The sixth Station of the Cross was taped at the Fruitvale BART station in Oakland where Oscar Grant was killed. The tenth station of the cross was taped in a San Diego neighborhood that used to house the local KKK headquarters. The video runs 40 minutes and will be linked to the home page of every diocese in California. It can also be found at www.cacatholic.org. A copy of the liturgy is attached as well. Sample Locations This special prayer to overcome racism in our hearts and society begins and ends at St. Odilia Parish in South Los Angeles – the first African American Catholic Church established in the West, built by African Americans as a beacon of faith, hope and love. The parish, established in 1927, is a hub for social and religious activities in the community. Many black Catholic families from throughout the Archdiocese of Los Angeles can trace their families’ Catholic roots back to St. Odilia’s. The Archdiocese of San Francisco’s location for the 11th Station of the Cross is at the Shrine of the Crucifixion in the Cathedral of St. Mary of the Assumption in San Francisco. The Cathedral has been the historic location of rallies for the dignity of human life. The Sixth Station was prayed at the Fruitvale BART station in the Diocese of Oakland, the scene of the fatal shooting of Oscar Grant III in 2009 by a police officer, while Grant lay prone on the train platform in the early morning hours of New Year’s Day. The incident was portrayed in the 2013 award-winning movie, Fruitvale Station. In the Diocese of Orange, Bishop Kevin Vann and others stood in front of the former Lydia D. Killefer Elementary School building in Orange, one of the first schools in California to desegregate. The school is on the National Register of Historic Places. The Diocese of San Bernardino filmed its Stations of the Cross video at the gas station in Riverside, CA where city police shot and killed Tyisha Miller, a 19-year-old African American woman who was sitting unconscious in her car (at 6575 Brockton Avenue). Her killing attracted national attention and the presence of noted civil rights leaders. More than $22 million in civil judgements were paid out in the case and the incident led to reforms within the Riverside Police Department. None of the officers involved in Miller’s shooting were criminally charged. The Diocese of San Diego taped the Station of the Cross with Bishop

McElroy in central San Diego neighborhood of North Park, in a spot where the headquarters of the KKK stood in 1920. From there, its members targeted blacks and Hispanics. As the setting for the Stations of the Cross, Bishop Oscar Cantú of the Diocese of San Jose chose the gardens of Our Lady of Peace Shrine. The 32-foot-tall stainless-steel sculpture, built in 1983, is one of the largest and one of the only Marian shrines on the West Coast as well as an iconic feature of Silicon Valley. The Shrine of our Blessed Mother has been a focal point for many people seeking inspiration, comfort, or a peaceful place to pray, and it was a fitting place to ask Our Lady to intercede for racial justice and peace. Located in downtown Sacramento, the “Kumbaya Moment” mural illustrates the last strands of a tug-of-war between sides. It served as the location for the Diocese of Sacramento’s video. Filmed with the cross in the center of the frame, the Diocese of Sacramento sought to further illustrate the need to bring Christ into the difficult discussions of our day. The Diocese of Stockton recorded its station at the Cathedral of the Annunciation in Stockton. Its leaders chose that location because it is their mother church and because of its urban surroundings. The visual piece shown in front of Bishop Myron Cotta represents the 14th station, where Jesus was laid on a slab and into the tomb. The slab where Jesus was laid to rest has symbolic parallels to where George Floyd was killed, on the street curb. Stations of the Cross

- Opening Dialog and Prayer: The Archdiocese of Los Angeles
- First Station – “Jesus is condemned to death,” The Armenian Catholic Eparchy (Glendale)
- Second Station – “Jesus takes up his cross,” Diocese of San Diego
- Third Station – “Jesus falls for the first time,” The Diocese of Fresno
- Fourth Station – “Jesus meets his mother,” The Maronite Eparchy of Our Lady of Lebanon (Los Angeles)
- Fifth Station – “Simon of Cyrene helps Jesus carry the cross,” The Diocese of Monterey
- Sixth Station – “Veronica wipes the face of Jesus,” The Diocese of Oakland
- Seventh Station – “Jesus falls for the second time,” The Diocese of Orange
- Eighth Station – “Jesus meets the women of Jerusalem,” The Diocese of Sacramento
- Ninth Station – “Jesus falls for the third time,” The Diocese of San Bernardino
- Tenth Station – “Jesus is stripped of his garments,” The Diocese of San Diego
- Eleventh Station – “Jesus is crucified,” The Archdiocese of San Francisco
- Twelfth Station – “Jesus dies on the cross,” The Diocese of San Jose
- Thirteenth Station – “Jesus is taken down from the cross,” The Diocese of Santa Rosa
- Fourteenth Station – “Jesus is laid in the tomb,” The Diocese of Stockton

Closing Prayer: The Archdiocese of Los Angeles

Fecha de creación

junio 18, 2020